

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The Unforgetting.
I saw the young birds fly,
I saw and I knew
That somewhere in the sky
The world smiled, too.
As and back, only in their sleep
When their shadows are at rest,
As and back, only in their sleep,
At the heart of a boy.

I heard the dead leaves fall,
I heard and I knew
That somewhere in the air
The world smiled, too.

Not at this, when you sleep,
Not at the morning light,
Not at those moments when
The world is still and bright.

Poems You Ought to Know.

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

No. 936.

To Any Reader.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

These lines conclude Stevenson's "Child's Garden of Verses," in which, with infinite touch, he describes his own childhood's joys and sorrows and wonderful dreams.

As from the house your mother sees
You playing round the garden trees,
So you may see, if you will look
Through the windows of this book.
Another child, far, far away,
And in another garden, play,
But do not think you can at all,
By knocking on the window, call
That child to hear you. He intent
Is all on his play-business bent.
He does not hear; he will not look,
Nor yet be fired out of this book.
For, long ago, the truth to say,
He has grown up and gone away,
And it is but a child of air
That lingers in the garden there.

This series begins in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1903. One is published each day.

SEVERE ROASTING FOR MAN WHO DIDN'T WORK

Justice Crutchfield Sends Man to Jail for Failing to Support Wife and Babies.

Holding a one-year-old baby in her arms, and with four children, the oldest just ten years of age, waiting behind her, Mrs. Christiana Thimes, wife of Nicholas Thimes, appeared in Police Court yesterday to charge her husband with assaulting her and failing to contribute to her support.

It was a pitiful sight, one of those scenes seldom witnessed anywhere, but more often pictured in Police Court. The man, a big, husky looking individual, had no trace of shame in his countenance as he faced the court and the spectators. Near him stood his little children. Around their mother's skirt they clung as though afraid to go near the man.

The woman, a frail creature at best, bowed her head and wept as she begged the court to send her husband to jail to earn a little one at her feet. Every eye in the courtroom was focused on the man. Like a statue turned to stone, he stood there.

"You've got my sympathy this much," said Mr. "Dutch" Leeman, as he forced a bill in his hand. "You've got my sympathy this much, but you've got to support your family. You can't go around and abuse your wife in the presence of your children. The law is that your failure is not fatal. I send you to jail for six months in default of security."

The man wheeled around and started for the pen. The woman, holding her baby yet closer to her breast, started out and followed the example of Mr. Leeman. Others contributed at once, and before the abused woman left the courtroom she had been given enough money to keep her from want and anxiety.

She had taken in washing for a long time and had supported her children. The husband had done nothing. She will be rid of him for six months, unless he furnishes good security.

I consider Buckhorn the finest Lithia Water in the world. Its conjoint action upon the hepatic as well as renal secretions make it an ideal alterative among mineral waters.
